2010 Conference!

AVR Saskatchewan is privileged to offer an opportunity to come together for networking and professional development. Whether you are a volunteer who looks after other volunteers, or a paid coordinator of volunteer services, this conference will offer something for you. Sessions for this year's conference have been chosen to not only help us in our journey as an association, but to build and foster skills that are a universal need in our programs -

Conference Sessions

Connecting, collaborating, and communicating is important not only for our association, but also for each of us as we work in the field of volunteer administration.

Our panel of "experts" from Saskatoon and Heartland Heath Region will share their experiences and knowledge. They will be sharing the experiences in learning & leadership, team and community development, and the programs they deliver within their organizations.

Learn about programs & concepts such as Crucial Conversations & Contagious Kindness, and how these values-in-action based programs help both organizations and individuals that serve them.

And of course – there will be some time set aside for networking and sharing, and a chance to get to know each other.

CAVR Update - Learn more about the recent activities of this National organization that we partner with to support volunteer management administrators. Local CAVR members will highlight their experiences from the Newfoundland 2010 conference held in May.

“Out of all my learnings about volunteerism and how to lead volunteers, I have learned the most from my peers-they are my mentors and greatest source of encouragement.”

Administrators of Volunteer Resources- Saskatchewan (AVR-SK)

We are a professional organization with province-wide influence dedicated to providing a supportive network for any person, paid or unpaid, who works with volunteers in any sector, for example: recreation, spiritual, social services, cultural, educational, community, health and others.

Our mission is to provide a supportive network for managers of volunteers.
